Terminal Emptied After Security Scare

The Problem: You've seen this newspaper headline frequently since 9/11. There is a hole in our security system big enough to drive a tank full of terrorists through. Plainclothes detectives were able to get guns and knives past checkpoints. People have walked through security points totally unchecked. Now all bags are being "screened" and matched to the passenger. The FAA is testing weapons detection security systems for use in national airports to scan air travelers. Walk-through portals are being developed that can detect traces of explosives by "sniffing" the air around a person. However, metal detectors have been found unplugged and the batteries of a scanner were determined dead after hundreds of travelers boarded their flights.

The Solution: It does not depend on the government or technology; the solution lies with you, the traveler. Consultations with airlines, pilots, and flight attendants show a shift in attitude from passive to active resistance. We provide you with the fundamentals of safety and the strategies for security to help you make smarter time; money; and life-saving decisions.

You Learn How To:

- Preplan a hassle-free airport experience.
- Adhere to FAA-instituted guidelines.
- Identify potential security hazards.
- Keep your stuff secure during screenings.
- Communicate with security and flightcrew.
- Smarten up and fly right.
- Deal with an air-raged passenger.
- Defend yourself and others in an attack.
- Understand high-tech and low-tech security.
- Enjoy your trip and fly safe.
